一、支那機ノ病院爆撃ニ關スル情報部長談話 (十月十八日)

According to official information received at the Foreign Office today, the Chinese aeroplanes appeared seven times, consecutively, between the hours from 7.30 o'clock Sunday evening to 3.30 o'clock Monday morning, and dropped three incendiary bombs on the Isolation Hospital (now being used by the Japanese Red Cross) belonging to the Shanghai Municipal Council on Range Road, completely burning down one of the wards and wounding a Japanese nurse. They also dropped two similar bombs on Haining Road, one of which failed to explode, but the other one exploded with terrific detonation working havoc with many houses in the neighborhood. Another incendiary bomb was dropped on a Chinese hospital on the same road and its building was badly damaged. The Chinese planes also dropped a number of incendiary bombs on the Yangszeepo area, but fortunately there were no casualties.

October 21, 1937.

Not realizing the folly of their mendacious propaganda, the Chinese are again trying to deceive the world by spreading their reports of the proceedings of the court now investigating the case of the alleged sinking by a Japanese submarine of Chinese fishing junks off the South China coast. The Chinese fishermen attending as witnesses told the court that the submarine which attacked the junks was the Japanese submarine No. 7. However, the very submarine, which they claim to have been the offender against the junks, has only recently been constructed at Yokosuka and has not since left the harbour of that base. It is still lying there. Furthermore, the colour of the Japanese submarine is not light grey as alleged by those Chinese witnesses. These facts are an eloquent testimony to what extent the Chinese are capable of trying to hoodwink world opinion. It will be recalled that the first Chinese report of the attack by a Japanese submarine of the Chinese fishing junks was blasted by the remarks of the captain and chief officer of the German liner, the Scharnhorst, who categorically denied any knowledge of the attack by a Japanese submarine on the Chinese junks which the Chinese had attributed to the German shipper.

In the session of the Hongkong Supreme Court in the inquiry into the alleged sinking of Chinese fishing junks off the South China coast by a Japanese submarine, the Chinese witnesses who styled themselves as fishermen of the attacked junks testified that the junks they were riding were equipped with from one to four old style cannons. We have never heard of a fishing boat with such armaments. The Chinese testimony, therefore, must be taken as a confession that the allegedly attacked junks were pirate junks which infest the neighbourhood of Bias Bay.

In view of the increasing loss of lives and property due to the rampancy of pirates since 1920, the Hongkong Government revised in 1926 the laws of the control of pirates for the purpose of strengthening the control over pirates infesting Bias Bay, but it was without satisfactory results.

Accordingly, in September, 1927, Great Britain proposed a joint expedition of the Powers against pirates to the Diplomatic Corps at Peking. But owing to the refusal by the United States, France and Italy, Great Britain decided to negotiate with Japan for joint action against piracy and in the latter part of 1927, an understanding was reached between the British naval commander at Hongkong and the captain of the Japanese patrol ship, the Uji, at Canton, whereby the British and Japanese warships were to notify each other the schedule of their watch over Bias Bay. This understanding came into effect in the early part of January, 1928.

For two years, namely 1928 and 1929, the Canton authorities carried on expeditions against pirates, but with no successful results.

In April, 1927, the year when the Chinese boycott against Great Britain was at its height, Great Britain alone undertook an expedition against Chinese, sending four men-of-war, as well as the Hermes, aircraft carrier, to Bias which attacked the villages along the Bay, destroying 110 houses and fifty junks.

In September, 1928, the British despatched the above-mentioned Hermes and four other warships, landing 500 marines, and carried on expeditions against the pirates.

These facts should serve to make clear the circumstances surrounding the action taken by the Japanese Navy against pirates during the past weeks.

五、[「クニツクニ」] 露英海難事件ニ關スル情報部長談話 (十月二十五日)

1. At 3:30 o'clock p.m., October 24, there occurred a deplorable incident. A Japanese war-plane attacked by mistake British soldiers at a point about two kilometres to the south of the Jessfield Park.

2. Investigations on the spot conducted by Commander Matsubara and Consul Wajima disclosed the following facts:

a. The place was situated on Keswick Road about two kilometres to the south of Jessfield Park. The incident occurred at 4:30 p.m., Japan time.

b. Along Keswick Road there are several patrol posts of the British soldiers constructed with sand bags and covered with rush-mats, which were mistaken for Chinese positions. Three of these posts were fired upon and a soldier at the entrance of one of them was shot.

The Commander-in-Chief of the British Fleet protested to the Japanese authorities at Shanghai and on the completion of the above investigation the chief of staff of the Japanese Fleet there called on the British Commander-in-Chief to express condolences. The Japanese Landing Party Headquarters also sent Captain Fujita to the Commander of the British garrison for the same purpose.

STATEMENT OF THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT REGARDING JAPAN'S NON-PARTICIPATION IN THE CONFERENCE OF THE NINE GREAT POWERS REGARDING THE POWER TREATY SIGNATORIES.

October 27, 1937.

The Japanese Government, having replied to the invitation of the Belgian Government to the Conference of the Signatories of the Nine Power Treaty of 1922, take this opportunity of making public at home and abroad a statement of their views. China has witnessed the rise and fall of countless régimes since the Revolution of 1912, but her foreign policy has been consistently one of anti-foreignism. Especially since 1924, when the Kuomintang set up the Nationalist Government in Canton and entered into alliance with the Communists as a means of winning control of the central administration, the anti-foreign policy began to be pursued with unprecedented vigor and ruthlessness, and anti-foreign sentiments were kindled ablaze among the populace. The memory is still fresh of the way in which foreign Powers, one after another, were victimized and deprived of their vested rights and interests. It happens that Japan has been made for the past ten years the principal target of this anti-foreign policy of China. Japan has always striven to promote friendship and cooperation among the nations of East Asia, in the firm conviction that therein lies the key to the stability of that region. Japan welcomed the deepening of Chinese national consciousness which followed upon the Revolution, believing that it would conduce to intimate Sino-Japanese collaboration, and she adopted the policy of meeting the legitimate national aspirations of China to the utmost possible extent. For instance, in 1926 Japan took the lead in assisting China to recover her customs autonomy, and took a firm stand in favour of China on the question of the abolition of extra-territoriality. Japan, thus cultivating China's good-will, looked patiently and eagerly forward to a favourable response that would consort with her ideal of friendship and cooperation. However, China showed no signs of appreciation of this sympathetic attitude on the part of Japan. On the contrary, she hoisted still higher the banner of anti-Japanism, and seemed resolved to annihilate all Japanese rights and interests in China. The Government employed anti-Japanism as a convenient tool in domestic politics for the mobilization of public opinion in support of their regime, and resorted to the unheard-of tactics of making it the foundation of moral education in the army and in the schools, so that even innocent children and youths were taught to look upon their friendly neighbour country as an enemy. As a result, not only were the peaceful trade and economic activities of Japan interrupted but even the very lives of Japanese nationals were jeopardized. This anti-Japanese campaign finally took the form of organized terrorism as in the cases of the killing of a Japanese blue-jacket at Shanghai in November, 1935, and of the subsequent murderous attacks upon Japanese subjects at Swatow, Chengtu, Pakhoi, Hankow and Shanghai, and the bombing of Japanese residences at Shanghai and Swatow. In the face of the alarming situation the Japanese Government remained calm and forbearing. Urgent demands were repeatedly made upon the Nanking Government for the reversal of their disastrous policy but to no avail. Then towards the end of last year there occurred the Sian Incident, in which Chiang Kai-shek was held captive for some days. Though the exact circumstances surrounding that sensational incident remain a mystery, it is an indisputable fact that shortly afterward Communist elements, gaining the ascendancy in the Nanking Government, began to conduct campaigns of disturbance in North China and Manchoukuo under the banner of "Anti-Japanese People's Front," which finally led to the Lukouchiao Incident of July 7 of this year, in which Japanese soldiers were unlawfully fired upon by Chinese troops in the outskirts of Peiping.

2. Upon the occurrence of the Lukouchiao Incident the Japanese Government, desirous of averting a possible Sino-Japanese crisis immediately formulated a policy of non-aggravation and local settlement, and devoted their best efforts toward bringing about an amicable solution, despite the intolerable situations that were created, one after another, by the Chinese on the spot. On the other hand the Nanking Government, in violation of the Ho-Umezu Agreement moved north the vast forces under their direct command, to threaten the Japanese garrisons, and also instigated local Chinese armies against Japan. The situation was thus aggravated until a general clash between the two countries became inevitable. It should be recalled that the Nanking Government, which employs anti-Japanism as an instrument of internal unification, had been conducting for some years a militaristic propaganda aimed at Japan, and that at the same time, by importing vast quantities of munitions, constructing fortifications, and giving intensive training to the troops, they had succeeded in building up strong armaments, so that their military men grew over-confident of their own strength and the people themselves were deluded into putting an exaggerated estimate upon their country's fighting power. A belligerent spirit towards Japan came to prevail throughout the land. Long before the present outbreak Chinese newspapers and magazines were accustomed to call Japan the "enemy country", and Japanese their enemies. At the time of the Lukouchiao Incident the Nanking Government, being driven to action against Japan by the internal situation they themselves had created, Japan's cautious attitude and her policy of local settlement were both doomed to utter failure. With the aggravation of the situation all Japanese residents, not only in North China but also in Central and South China became exposed to imminent danger, and were compelled to evacuate en masse, abandoning the enterprises that they had toilsomely built up during long years in the past. At the same time the Chinese in Shanghai, in contravention of the 1932 Truce Agreement, secretly set out to construct military works in the demilitarized zone and to perfect their war preparations. Accordingly in June last the Japanese Government made a request for a special conference of the Powers concerned, and called the attention of the Chinese Government to the matter. The Chinese refused to alter their attitude, but upon the outbreak of the armed conflict in North China, they moved troops into the prohibited zone in flagrant violation of the Truce Agreement, and finally following upon the murder of an officer and a man belonging to the Japanese Landing Party on August 9, they launched an attack upon the International Settlement.

While the Japanese authorities were still engaged in negotiations with the representatives of the Powers concerned, in a desperate attempt to prevent hostilities with extreme patience and forbearance and bearing serious strategical disadvantages, the Chinese began to shell and bomb the Japanese quarter of the Settlement as well as the Japanese garrison defending it, with a view to annihilating the 30,000 Japanese residents as well as the Japanese forces who were hopelessly outnumbered by the Chinese armies. Thereupon Japan was compelled to take counter-measures in self-defence. As is clear from the foregoing account, the fundamental cause of the aggravation of the present affair is to be found in the policy of the Nanking Government who, moved largely, threatening forces into North China in contravention of the Ho-Umezu Agreement and also tore up the Truce Agreement by marching troops on the International Settlement. Japan was compelled to take up arms in self-defence, and she has chosen this opportunity to make the Nanking Government revise their attitude for the sake of the permanent peace of East Asia. Therefore, the present affair can never be settled until the Nanking Government mend their ways, abandon once and for all their anti-Japanese policy and accept Japan's policy of cooperation and collaboration between the two countries. It should be remembered that one of the important factors underlying Nanking's feverish agitations of more recent years against Japan is the action taken by the League of Nations at the time of the Manchurian Incident. That body then adopted a resolution framed in utter disregard of the realities of the situation in East Asia, which strongly stimulated China in her anti-Japanese policy. Now the League has once more taken up the appeal of the Nanking Government. Without going fully into the real causes of the present affair, it has concluded on the basis of false reports that the bombing of the military works in strongly fortified Nanking and Canton was an attack upon defenceless cities, and adopted the resolution of September 27 condemning Japan. Again on October 6 the Assembly of the League not only concluded that Japan's action constituted a violation of the Anti-War Pact and the Nine Power Treaty but also adopted a resolution which openly called for assistance to China. Such proceedings on the part of the League only fall in with the cunning scheme of the Nanking Government to exert pressure upon Japan by inviting the intervention of third Powers, and serve no useful end but to encourage China in her resolve to oppose Japan to the last and to render a settlement of the affair more difficult than ever. It must be said that the League of Nations is repeating the error that it committed but a few years ago.

Japan's action is a measure of self-defence taken in the face of Chinese challenge, and obviously there can be no question of violation of the Nine Power Treaty. Moreover, as compared with the time when that treaty was concluded, the situation of East Asia to-day has been rendered totally different, owing to the infiltration of Communist influence and the changes of internal conditions prevailing in China. In any case, as regards the conference that has been convened, of the signatories to the Nine Power Treaty, it is a foregone conclusion that a majority of the participants will hold themselves bound by the above-mentioned resolutions of the League of Nations, and even if Japan took part in its deliberations, no fair and just results could ever be expected therefrom, as in the case of the League meeting at the time of the Manchurian Incident. Especially as this Conference is to be attended by Powers which are not directly interested in East Asia, it is calculated to arouse popular feeling both in Japan and China, thereby complicating the situation still further but contributing nothing toward a solution. The Japanese Government have, therefore, decided to decline the invitation to the settlement of the present conflict.

For the Japanese nation, rising as one man, is united in the determination to surmount all obstacles for the purpose of effecting a speedy settlement. Japan is, by no means, in different towards international cooperation. But the Sino-Japanese difficulties can be solved only through direct negotiations between the two Powers on whom falls the common burden of responsibility for the stability of East Asia. What is needed is the elimination of Nanking's anti-Japanese policy and the Communist elements which are identified with it, so that there may be established an enduring peace based upon Sino-Japanese unity.

Le Gouvernement Imperial a l'honneur d'accuser réception de la Note verbale en date du 20 de ce mois, par laquelle le Gouvernement Royal, donnant suite à une demande du Gouvernement de Grande-Bretagne, faite avec l'approbation du Gouvernement des Etats-Unis d'Amérique, propose aux Etats signataires du traité du six Février 1922 de se réunir à Bruxelles le 30 de ce mois à l'effet d'examiner, conformément à l'article sept de ce traité, la situation en Extrême-Orient et d'étudier les moyens amiables de hâter la fin du conflit regrettable qui y sévit.

La Société des Nations, dans le rapport adopté le 6 de ce mois, a déclaré, en se basant sur les dires d'une seule des Parties, que les opérations militaires auxquelles le Japon se livre en Chine sont contraires aux obligations découlant du Traité des Neuf Puissances. L'action que le Gouvernement Imperial s'est vu contraint de prendre en Chine est un acte de légitime défense à l'égard des actes provocatifs de violence et particulièrement de force armée auxquels la Chine a eu recours en poursuivant une politique extrémiste dirigée contre le Japon, et ainsi que le Gouvernement Imperial a déjà déclaré, le Traité des Neuf Puissances n'est donc pas en question.

moral et recommande aux membres de la Société des Nations de s'abstenir de toute action de nature à affaiblir le pouvoir de résistance de ce pays, aggravant ainsi ses difficultés dans le présent conflit, ainsi que d'examiner dans quelles mesures ils pourraient apporter à titre individuel leur aide à la Chine. C'est là ne tenir aucun compte des réelles et justes intentions du Gouvernement Impérial qui se propose, par l'établissement d'une sincère coopération entre le Japon et la Chine, d'assurer une paix réelle en Asie orientale et contribuer ainsi à la paix du monde. C'est aussi prendre parti pour une seule des Parties et encourager ses dispositions hostiles, ce qui ne peut assurément contribuer au règlement du conflit.

Le Gouvernement Royal ne fait dans son invitation, aucune mention du rapport entre la Conférence envisagée et la Société des Nations. Cependant, en vue du fait que dans sa Résolution, la Société des Nations invite à se réunir les Membres de la Société qui sont parties au Traité des Neuf Puissances, que le Gouvernement des Etats-Unis d'Amérique qui a donné son approbation à la demande de la convocation de la Conférence faite par le Gouvernement britannique, avait, le 6 octobre, déclaré appuyer la Résolution, le Gouvernement Impérial ne peut s'empêcher de conclure que la convocation de la Conférence est liée à la Résolution de la Société des Nations. Or la Société des Nations, ainsi qu'il a été exposé ci-dessus, a énoncé un avis portant atteinte à l'honneur du Japon et a adopté une résolution incontestablement inamicale à son égard. Dans ces circonstances, le Gouvernement Impérial se voit contraint de constater que de franches et complètes communications, permettant d'amener une solution juste, équitable et réaliste du conflit entre le Japon et la Chine, ne sauraient être échangées entre les Puissances intéressées au cours de la Conférence proposée.

De plus le présent conflit sino-japonais provient de la situation particulière de l'Asie orientale et revêt un caractère extrêmement important mettant en jeu l'existence même des deux pays. Le Gouvernement Impérial est fermement convaincu de ce que tenter d'en rechercher une solution dans une Conférence composée de Puissances dont les intérêts en Asie orientale varient, ou qui n'y possèdent guère d'intérêts, ne servirait qu'à compliquer encore la situation et apporterait de graves obstacles à un règlement équitable et durable.

Pour des raisons ci-dessus exposées, le Gouvernement Impérial regrette de ne pouvoir accepter l'invitation du Gouvernement Royal.

Le présent conflit résulte de la campagne anti-japonaise poursuivie par le Gouvernement Chinois pendant de nombreuses années en tant que politique nationale en cultivant des sentiments anti-japonais chez le peuple chinois et en donnant des encouragements aux mouvements anti-japonais. Il provient également du péril auquel se trouve exposée la paix de l'Asie orientale du fait de l'agitation accrue contre le Japon provoquée par la collusion du Gouvernement Chinois avec les éléments communistes. Par conséquent, pour arriver au règlement du conflit il est indispensable que le Gouvernement Chinois, conscient de la responsabilité qui incombe communément au Japon et à la Chine à l'égard de la stabilité de l'Asie Orientale, y réfléchisse et revienne à la politique de coopération entre les deux pays. Ce que le Japon demande aux Puissances, c'est de prendre nettement conscience de ces éléments essentiels de la situation. Seule une coopération basée sur une telle compréhension pourra contribuer efficacement à la stabilité de l'Asie Orientale.

Tokio, le 27 octobre 1937.

The Japanese Government have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of the Note Verbal under the date of the 20th instant, by which the Royal Government, in accordance with the request of the Government of Great Britain, and with the approbation of the Government of the United States of America, propose to the Powers signatory to the Treaty of February 6, 1922, to meet at Brussels on the 30th of this month in order to examine, in conformity with the Article VII of the said treaty, the situation in the Far East and to study amicable means of hastening the end of the regrettable conflict which is taking place there. The League of Nations, in the report adopted on the 6th of the month, has declared on the basis of the declaration of only one of the two parties that the military operations carried on by Japan in China are in violation of the Nine Power Treaty. The action of Japan in China is a measure of self-defence which she has been compelled to take in the face of China's violent anti-Japanese policy and practice, especially by her provocative acts appealing to force of arms; and consequently, it has been declared already by the Imperial Government, outside the purview of the Nine Power Treaty. The Assembly of the League of Nations has even gone the length of assuring China of its moral support and of recommending to its members to abstain from any action that might weaken that country's power of resistance and add to its difficulties in the present conflict, and also to study how they might individually give aid to China. This to take no account of the just intention of the Imperial Government, who propose to bring about a sincere co-operation between Japan and China, to assure enduring peace in East Asia, and to contribute thereby to the peace of the world. This is to take sides with one of the parties and to encourage its hostile disposition, but in no way to contribute to an early settlement of differences between the two countries.

The Royal Government make in their invitation no mention of the connection between the proposed Conference and the League of Nations. However, in view of the fact that in its Resolution, the League of Nations has suggested a meeting of those of its members who are party to the Nine Power Treaty, and that the Government of the United States, who have acquiesced in the request of the Government of Great Britain for the convocation of the conference, have declared on October 6 their approval of the Resolution, the Imperial Government cannot but conclude that the convocation of the conference is linked to the Resolution of the League of Nations. Now the League of Nations, as mentioned above, has expressed its views casting reflection upon the honour of Japan, and it has adopted a resolution which is incontestably unfriendly towards her, and with the adoption of the League of Nations, the Imperial Government are constrained to believe that frank and full discussion to bring about a just, equitable and realistic solution of the conflict between Japan and China, cannot be expected between the Powers concerned at the proposed Conference. Moreover, the present Sino-Japanese conflict arising from the special situation of East Asia, has a vital bearing upon the very existence of the two countries. The Imperial Government are firmly convinced that an attempt to seek a solution at a gathering of so many Powers whose interests in East Asia are of varying degrees, or who have practically no interests there at all, will only serve to complicate the situation still further and to put serious obstacles in the path of a just and proper solution.

The present conflict has been caused by none other than the Chinese Government who for these many years have been engaged as a matter of national policy in disseminating anti-Japanese sentiment and encouraging anti-Japanese movements in China, and who, in collusion with the Communist elements, have menaced the peace of East Asia by their virulent agitations against Japan. Consequently, what is most urgently needed for a solution of the conflict is a realization, on the part of the Chinese Government of the common responsibility of Japan and China, respecting the stability of East Asia, a revision of their attitude, and a change of their policy to that of co-operation between the two countries. What Japan asks of the Powers is that they comprehend fully this need. Their co-operation, based upon such comprehension can alone, she believes, contribute effectively toward the stabilization of East Asia.

REMARKS BY THE SPOKESMAN CONCERNING THE MACHINE-GUNNING OF BRITISH SOLDIERS IN SHANGHAI.

Regarding the occurrence of the incident in the afternoon of the 24th of October, in which a Japanese aeroplane accidentally machine-gunned British soldiers in the vicinity of Keswick Road on the Western Extension Road of Shanghai, killing one British soldier, Mr. Koki Hirota, Minister for Foreign Affairs, sent on the evening of the 25th, a note addressed to the British Ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie in Tokyo, expressing apology on behalf of the Japanese Government.

九、支那軍ノ毒瓦斯使用ニ關スル情報部長談話 (十月二十五日)

There are indisputable proofs in possession of the Japanese army that the Chinese are manufacturing large quantities of poison gas and cartridges of different sizes containing poison gas. These deadly weapons are being manufactured at the arsenals of Kung-hsien, a town in Honan province lying on the Lunghai Railway between Loyang and Chengchow, and of Siaoyi (or Hsiao), also on the Lunghai Railway a short distance to the west of Kung-hsien.

At the Kung-hsien Arsenal are being manufactured poison gases, such as chloro-acetophenone (lacrimator), Adamsite (respiratory irritant or sputeritator), and Iperit (vrisant). The arsenal also makes chlorine and sulphuric acid in large quantities. Besides manu-

In the note, Ambassador Grew, under the instruction of his Government, conveyed the appreciation of the American Government for the prompt expression of regret by our Government.

In reply to our Major Sir Robert Christie's telegram of 10th (十一月一日) in the Government's name to the Japanese Government, dated 10th November 1937.

According to information received from reliable sources in Shanghai, the Japanese Landing Party, after occupying on Sunday the godowns of the Four Banks Joint Savings Society near Ribet Road on the northern side of the Soochow Creek, found that the building was connected with the zone under British guard through an adjacent house. The Chinese force which had been occupying the bank building had apparently free access to the British zone, from which they were supplied with food, water, and other provisions besides freely communicating with the British zone.

Upon the completion of the investigation by our authorities concerning the incident in which Japanese aircraft fired upon motor-cars used by the British Assistant Air Attaché and his party in the vicinity of Minghong on the 12th of last month, Mr. Koki Hirota, Minister for Foreign Affairs, sent a Note, dated 28th of last month, addressed to the British Ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie, expressing apology, on behalf of the Japanese Government, to the British Government for the incident.

In reply to our Note, Sir Robert Craigie presented a Note, dated the 30th of last month, in which he expressed, on behalf of his Home Government, his gratification in the assurances of the Japanese Government and his agreement to regard the incident as closed.

STATEMENT OF THE FOREIGN OFFICE SPOKESMAN MADE ON DECEMBER 1, 1937.

Two news items appearing in the Japan Advertiser of December 10 have coincidentally brought into sharp relief the contrasting attitudes of the Japanese and the Chinese forces toward those things which are dear to mankind. One is the report of the New York Times correspondent in Nanking describing the utter destruction of that Chinese capital by the Chinese forces themselves. The report says that the correspondent was informed by neutral military observers who spent several days inspecting the war zone that the Chinese soldiers have been recklessly razing towns and villages surrounding Nanking, not only destroying cultural establishments and institutions representing billions of yuans of wealth accumulated by their ancestors and by the sweat of their own labour, but ruthlessly slaughtering innocent inhabitants who are simply bevildered by the vandalism of their own countrymen. The other news item is the report concerning the advice which General Iwane Matsui, commander of the Japanese forces in the Shanghai area, sent to the commander of the Chinese forces defending Nanking, in which the Japanese commander, expressing his desire of preserving intact the cultural and historic establishments in the ancient walled city out of respect to the civilization of the East, and preventing unnecessary sacrifice of human lives, urged the Chinese to surrender peacefully. The Japanese had requested the Chinese to surrender peacefully. Latest reports from the front say that the Chinese refused the Japanese advice. What this refusal will mean will become apparent as we get further news from the battle-field. But it is a pity that by the stubborn and futile attempt of the Chinese forces to resist the onslaught of the besieging forces, tens of thousands of innocent people in that area already deprived by their own soldiers of their homes and means of subsistence are to be left to the mercy of the elements when the rigorous cold of the winter is approaching. That the Japanese forces will mete out thoroughgoing punishment to those recalcitrant Chinese forces is a foregone conclusion.

一五 英國ノ支那軍援助ニ關スル情報部長談話 (十一月五日)

No less authority on the Chinese side than Madame Chiang Kai-shek herself has verified publicly the cooperation extended by British troops to the Chinese force which stubbornly fought against the Japanese troops several days ago at the godowns of the Four Banks Savings Society on the North Tibet Road, Shanghai.

Madame Chiang contributed an article to the New York Herald-Tribune of November 2, in which appeared the following passage with regard to the British help to the Chinese:

"We are grateful for the cooperation of British troops who did their utmost to relieve our suffering by dispatching food and bandages to us at grave risk of their lives."

支那軍ノ病院船襲撃事件ニ關スル情報部長談話 (十一月五日)

November 2: At 10:00 p.m. the Chinese forces in Pootung bombarded our hospital ship America Maru which was at the O.S.K. wharf. Two shrapnels exploded aboard the ship, killing Yutaka Akenokai (31 years old), a sailor, and wounding a soldier who had already been wounded and taken into the ship for treatment.

October 30: About 15 hospital boats carrying Japanese wounded soldiers down the Tachin River from Paoching were attacked by the defeated Chinese soldiers with trench mortars and machine guns.

The Representatives of States parties to the Treaty have taken note of the declaration of the Imperial Government in this respect. The Imperial Government, moreover, denies that there can be any question of violation of the Nine Power Treaty by Japan and it formulates a number of complaints against the Chinese Government. The Chinese Government for its part contends that there has been violation, denies the charge of the Japanese Government and in turn makes complaint against Japan.

5. The treaty has made provision for just such a situation. It should be borne in mind that the exchange of views taking place at Brussels is based essentially on these provisions and constitutes "full frank communication" as envisaged in Article 7. The conference is being held with the view of assisting and resolving, by peaceful means, of the conflict between the parties of the Treaty. One of the parties to the present conflict, China, is represented at the Conference and has affirmed its willingness fully to cooperate its work with the Conference, regrets the absence of the other party, Japan, whose cooperation is most desirable.

6. The Imperial Government states that it is "firmly convinced that the attempt to seek solution at a gathering of so many Powers, whose interests in East Asia are of varying degree, or who have practically no interests there at all, will serve to complicate the situation still further and to put serious obstacles in the path of just and proper solution". It should be pointed out that all these Powers which are the parties to the Treaty are, under the terms of this act, entitled to exercise their rights which the Treaty confers upon them, that all the Powers, which have interests in Far East, are concerned regarding the present hostilities, and that the whole world is solicitous with regard to the effect of these hostilities on peace and security of the members of the family of nations. However, the Representatives of States met at Brussels believe that it may be possible to allay the Japanese misgivings referred to above, and would be glad to know whether the Imperial Government would be disposed to depute its representative, or representatives for exchange of views with the representatives of a small number of Powers chosen for the purpose. Such exchange of views would take place within the framework of the Nine Power Treaty and in conformity with the provision of the Treaty. Its aims would be to throw further light on the various points referred to above and to facilitate the settlement of the conflict. In regretting the continuation of hostilities, being firmly convinced that peaceful settlement is alone capable to ensure lasting constructive solution of the present conflict, and having confidence in efficacy of method of conciliation, the Representatives of States met at Brussels earnestly desire that such settlement may be achieved.

The States represented at the Conference would be very glad to know as soon as possible the attitude of the Imperial Government towards this proposal. It is regrettable that the Imperial Government has not yet given its answer to the proposal. It is regrettable that the Imperial Government has not yet given its answer to the proposal. It is regrettable that the Imperial Government has not yet given its answer to the proposal.

The Note Verbale of the Brussels Conference was received yesterday through the Belgian Ambassador. Its contents are practically the same as reported by Donel. It has been the consistent policy of the Japanese Government to solve all Sino-Japanese questions through direct negotiation between Japan and China. We find no reason to abandon that policy at this time.

Japan's appeal to force of arms in China has been provoked by China herself. Japan had never thought of resorting to force for the purpose of solving Sino-Japanese disputes. However, the situation having developed as it has, what is most urgently needed is the removal of the anti-Japanese forces that have brought on the present Sino-Japanese crisis and that may bring it on at any time in the future.

It is unbelievable that this purpose can be achieved at Brussels through the deliberations of the signatories of the Nine Power Treaty and other Powers, or even through the negotiations among a few limited Powers as long as they are not prepared to cooperate with Japan toward the removal of those anti-Japanese forces. We are convinced that there is no other way of effecting a solution of the present situation than direct negotiation between Japan and China. The most the other Powers can do at this juncture is to induce China to enter into direct negotiations with Japan.

二〇 同文書院火災ニ關スル情報部長談話 (十一月十日)

According to our latest official information from Shanghai, the circumstances of the burning of the Tungwen College are as follows:

At noon yesterday our Consul Some accompanied by a French liaison officer went to the spot for inspection and found only one of the residences of the staff members remaining intact. All other buildings were either wholly or partly burned down. The dormitory house, as well as the library in which were preserved numerous volumes of priceless Chinese classics, were completely ransacked before the Chinese set them on fire by pouring kerosene. The act was definitely established as a premeditated one on the part of the Chinese. An empty kerosene can was found at the entrance of the toilet house of the dormitory. Parts of the building now standing were saved by French soldiers who arrived at the spot for guard duty.

一二三 同文書院火災ニ關スル情報部長談話(十一月十日)

Chinese vandalism knows no bounds. After repeated attempts to burn the Tung-Wei College in Sincawei, the Japanese institution for the advancement of Chinese culture, the Chinese forces at last reduced that institution to ashes on Sunday night by setting fire to the buildings which remained after their previous incendiarism. When at seven o'clock in the evening the fire brigade of the Shanghai Municipal Council went to the spot to extinguish the fire, the Chinese soldiers interfered and would not allow the firemen to approach the burning buildings which continued to burn till midnight. Thousands of volumes of precious Chinese classics as well as other masterpieces of art and literature preserved in the library were turned to ashes. This is exactly the sort of work which the Chinese are doing while waxing hot for the sake of culture and civilization.

一二四 廈門砲擊事件ニ關スル情報部長談話(十一月十日)

The recent production of the Chinese propaganda mill is the press report that numerous Chinese civilians were killed by Japanese bombardment at Amoy.

This report was emphatically refuted by the British Consul at Amoy, Mr. A. Martin, who told newspapermen at Singapore that the Japanese bombardment was aimed only at military objectives. His interview was published by the Straits Times of Singapore of November 3 as follows:

"The reports of the bombing of Amoy have been greatly exaggerated. The Japanese cruisers bombarded only military objectives, forts on either side of the harbour."

It will be recalled that there were spread wild rumours as to the Chinese casualties caused by Japanese aerial bombing at Canton. The Daily Mirror of October 5 contains an article written by Mr. Boake Carter, that the report of several thousands non-combatants having been killed or wounded there was established to be completely a fabrication within 24 hours after the Japanese bombing by a neutral military observer.

These facts fully demonstrate that the Japanese bombing and bombardment are always accurately directed at Chinese military establishments and never at non-combatants.

STATEMENT OF THE FOREIGN OFFICE SPOKESMAN MADE ON DECEMBER 10, 1937, CONCERNING THE REVISION OF LAWS AND REGULATIONS PERTAINING TO EXCHANGE CONTROL.

The revision of the laws and regulations pertaining to exchange control which the Finance Ministry has decided upon aims at making good the defects in the laws and regulations hitherto in force or, in other words, at effecting accuracy in controlling exchange. Therefore, such changes as making the disposition of property held abroad a matter requiring permission, a provision establishing matters which require report or making the remittance of insurance money and the importation of goods with a bill of exchange matters requiring permission, have all been made only for the purpose of thoroughly carrying out the policy hitherto pursued.

Such stipulations, for instance, as for the reduction of the maximum amount of exchange for travelling expenses and various allowances from five thousand yen to one thousand yen, and the reduction of the maximum amount not requiring permission for the settlement of accounts for imported goods and for the importation without a bill of exchange, from one thousand yen to one hundred yen are primarily aimed at the control of dishonest persons in view of the fact that there has recently been a radical increase of those persons who evade laws by taking advantage of these privileges. These stipulations, therefore, are not intended for controlling, by any means normal transactions or bona fide remittances of money. As regards the procedures for issuing permission they will be expedited as much as possible for the benefit of applicants. With respect to the revision pertaining to the acquisition or disposal of property abroad, the Government will give careful consideration in order that our overseas enterprises in foreign countries will not be hindered.

In short, the Government in making revisions of laws and regulations concerning exchange control, has not adopted any new policy different from that hitherto followed, and it is unthinkable that bona fide merchants, entrepreneurs and remitters of money will unduly be handicapped.

The Finance Ministry decided upon the following revisions concerning exchange control today, December 10, 1937.

1. Disposition of foreign securities held abroad is made a matter requiring permission.
2. Disposition of property held abroad, the value of which exceeds ¥50,000, for the purpose of investment, acquisition by transfer of business or enterprise, or acquisition of property in Japan, is made a matter requiring permission (to be enforced as from January 1, 1938).

8. Acquisition of real estate abroad, vessels, mining rights, ownership of industrial rights, and timbering rights, the value of which exceeds ¥50,000 per year, is made a matter requiring permission, but this will not hinder in any way the operation of enterprises carried on abroad (to be enforced as from January 1, 1938).

4. Semi-annual reports are required concerning the increase and decrease of property held abroad and the condition of assets of enterprises carried on abroad (these reports are required from the second half-term of this year).

5. Remittance of insurance money except premiums for reinsurance and maritime insurance is made a matter requiring permission. (Remittance based on normal insurance transaction is not restricted). (As for remittances of letters of credit and of Japanese money orders, the revised laws concerning them are enforced as from the 11th and the 18th of this month respectively). (As for remittances of letters of credit and of Japanese money orders, the revised laws concerning them are enforced as from the 11th and the 18th of this month respectively). The maximum amount freely carried for travelling expenses and freely transmitted for allowances is reduced to one thousand yen (Restriction of necessary trip abroad is not intended). (To be enforced on December 18, 1938).

7. Purchase in foreign countries of bills of Yen exchange on Japan is made free with the exception of that which is intended for the settlement of accounts for sale of exchange.

8. Offer of security for debt incurred by Japanese residing abroad is made a matter requiring permission.

9. Monthly reports are required of the contents of accounts for mutual transactions with Japanese residing abroad. (Report is required from January, 1938).

10. The above numbered items 1, 4, 8 and 9 are not applied to foreign exchange banks.

11. The maximum amount of a money order and a letter of credit not requiring permission, and the maximum amount of importation without a bill of exchange not requiring permission is reduced to one hundred yen. As to import goods shipped within a week after the enforcement of the present Ordinance, the rules hitherto in force only are to be applied. (This provision is intended to restrict the abuse of the privilege pertaining to the maximum amount left free).

12. Permission is required for the settlement of accounts before goods are imported.

but transitional provision similar to the item is applied. (No hindrance is placed on normal transactions).

Le Gouvernement Impérial a l'honneur d'accuser réception de la Note Verbale en date du 7 novembre concernant la conférence de Bruxelles.

Le Gouvernement Impérial est heureux de constater que l'opinion des Puissances participantes exprimée dans ce document est le résultat d'une sérieuse considération. Il regrette cependant que cette opinion ne soit pas de nature à lui permettre de modifier les vues clairement exprimées dans sa réponse et sa déclaration, en date du 27 octobre. Les Puissances participantes ont bien voulu déclarer qu'elles seraient prêtes à désigner des représentants d'un nombre restreint des Puissances pour procéder à un échange de vues avec un ou plusieurs représentants du Japon, dans le cadre du traité des Neuf Puissances et conformément aux stipulations de ce traité. Cependant le Gouvernement Impérial ne peut que se tenir au point de vue que, séant vu dans l'obligation d'avoir recours à son action actuelle comme mesure de défense contre les actes de provocation chinois, celle-ci est en dehors des limites du traité des Neuf Puissances et qu'il n'y a aucunement lieu de discuter l'application de ce dernier; il ne saurait, d'ailleurs, accepter de prendre part à une réunion basée sur les dispositions de ce traité, tout en étant accusé d'en avoir violé les termes.

L'affaire actuelle provenant des conditions particulières de l'Asie Orientale, la recherche d'une solution par les deux seules parties ayant des intérêts directs et immédiats est le moyen permettant d'arriver au règlement le plus juste et le plus équitable. Le Gouvernement Impérial est fermement convaincu que l'intervention d'un organisme collectif tel que la présente Conférence ne ferait qu'exercer l'opinion nationale des deux pays et rendrait plus difficile une solution de l'affaire satisfaisante pour tous. Pourtant, le Gouvernement Impérial serait des plus heureux que les Puissances, ayant pris entière connaissance des vues exposées ci-dessus, puissent apporter une contribution, conforme à la situation réelle, à la stabilisation de l'Asie Orientale.

Les Puissances participantes ont remarqué que toutes les Puissances qui ont des intérêts en Extrême-Orient sont touchées par les hostilités actuelles et que le monde entier est préoccupé des répercussions des hostilités sur la paix et sur la sécurité des membres de la famille des nations. A cet égard, le Gouvernement Impérial tient à faire ressortir que, ainsi qu'il l'a nettement répété dans les déclarations faites jusqu'ici, il s'efforce par tous les moyens d'assurer le respect des droits et intérêts des Puissances étrangères en Chine et qu'il attache le plus haut prix à l'établissement de la paix en Asie Orientale à la suite d'un règlement satisfaisant de l'affaire actuelle.

Tokio, le 12 novembre 1937.

NOTE VERBALE

The Imperial Government have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of the Note Verbaie, dated the 7th November, concerning the Brussels Conference.

While they are pleased to take cognizance of the fact that the opinion of the participating Powers set forth in the said Note is the result of careful consideration, the Imperial Government regret that this opinion is not sufficient to persuade them to modify the views and policy clearly expressed in their last answer, dated the 27th October, and in their public Statement of the same date. It is stated by the participating Powers that they would be prepared to designate representatives of a small number of powers for an exchange of views with one or several representatives of Japan within the scope of the Nine Power Treaty and in conformity with its provisions. However, the Imperial Government adhere firmly to the view that their present action, being one of self-defence forced upon Japan by the challenge of China, lies outside the scope of the Nine Power Treaty, and that there is no room for any discussion of the question of its application. It is certainly impossible for them to accept an invitation to a conference convened in accordance with the stipulations of that treaty after Japan has been accused of having violated its terms.

Since the present affair has its origin in the special conditions of East Asia, the most just and equitable solution can be reached through direct negotiations between the two parties who are directly and immediately interested. It is the firm conviction of the Imperial Government that an attempt to negotiate within the framework of a collective organ such as the present Conference, would only arouse popular feelings in both countries and hinder a satisfactory solution of the affair. The Imperial Government would be glad if the Powers, appreciating fully the above-mentioned view, should contribute to the stabilization of East Asia in a manner consonant with the realities of the situation. The participating Powers state that all the Powers having interests in the Far East are affected by the present hostilities and that the whole world views with apprehension the repercussions of these hostilities on peace and on the security of the members of the family of nations. As regards this consideration, the Imperial Government desire to point out that, as has been made clear in Japan's successive declarations, they are doing everything in their power to respect the rights and interests of Foreign Powers in China, and that they have the deepest concern for the firm establishment of peace in East Asia through a satisfactory conclusion of the present affair.
