Editorial

"ARE WE EXPORTING REVOLUTION?"

COMMENTING on some of the curious experiences on our policy in occupying enemy countries, a newspaper writer puts the question, "Are we exporting revolution?" His point is that we seem to be attempting to carry out by directive in Germany and Japan social policies which we have not seen fit to adopt at home in a century and a half of democratic government. Recently the newspapers printed stories from Japan describing the dismay of the inhabitants at the number of Communist orations which poured out over the radio waves, at the order of the occupation authorities. Later we were informed by a dispatch from Barton Crane to The New York Times that, "Since the purges carried out in accordance with the wishes or imagined wishes of the occupation authorities, Tokyo's press has veered sharply to the left."

How this veering is accomplished was described by Mr. Crane in a later dispatch to his newspaper. It appears that the Communists moved in on the middle-of-the-road newspaper Yomiuri Hoichi and set themselves up as the controlling factor. In spite of the management, the news and editorials were slanted Communist. When the management attempted to control its own property, the Communists put on a sit-down strike. After a considerable ruckus the police ejected the strikers, and at long last the publisher of Yomiuri Hoichi could say a few words of his own. The story from here on becomes fascinating.

"But

"But," writes Correspondent Crane, "on July 6, Theodore Cohen, head of the labor division of Headquarters Economic and Scientific Section, called in labor-union leaders to clarify the implications of the trade-union law. Mr. Cohen explained that if Mr. Suzuki (the deposed Communist managing editor) and his colleagues had been dismissed because of union activity, the union law had been violated. The natural result of this was that Mr. Suzuki and his followers, who had thought all along that they had been dismissed for refusing to obey orders and for following an editorial policy opposing the publisher, suddenly decided that they had been dismissed for union activities. And the extreme leftists got a new lease on life from this evidence of headquarters support."

Thus, presumably in constructive defiance of General MacArthur, the mysterious Mr. Cohen, wittingly or otherwise, was attempting to force Communist control on a Japanese newspaper by using a warmed-over version of the worst features of the Wagner Act. It is not remarkable that the episode produced considerable amazement in Japan, where the eventual consequences of such stupidity will be just what they seem likely to be in Germany — delivery of the country to the Communists.

How things are working out in Germany is evident from Molotov's bid for second orship of a reunited and presumably rearmad Germany under Soviet control via perpetual reparations. The congressional committee headed by Representative Colmer, of Mississippi, which toured Europe last year gave an idea of what to expect. The committee explained that the

SUBJECT: CHANNELS OF COMMUNICATION

TO : Military Government Section Headquarters I Corps.

Referring to the Note AG 312.3-BA dated 5th November, 1945 from the Adjutant General addressed to the Japanese Liaison Office, Osaka, on the above-mentioned subject, this office wishes to inform the Headquarters I Corps that, if the request offices made in the above Note is transmitted to the 13 prefectural/and several liaison offices in the I Corps area without any further explanation, the governors concerned will no doubt make inquiries for the clarification of various points involved therein. It is obvious, if this request should be carried out to the letter, it will require an enormous amount of extra work on their part and this will mean a heavy burden to them in view of the present policy to drastically curtail the personnel of government offices. Therefore, this office considers it advisable to specify the subjects of reports, copies of which should be submitted to the nearest Military Government Sections and to formulate the working details of the present arrangement.

From the above consideration, it is desired to communicate with those offices concerned in the following manner subject to the approval of Headquarters I Corps:

(1) Copies of reports of the following category should be submitted to the Headquarters I Corps:

- (a) General economic conditions
- (b) Social & Welfare works
- (c) Police affairs which would affect the general peace and order
- (d) Important administrative measures newly put in force

(2) Copies of reports written in Japanese should be sent to the following military establishment, together with covering note in English which will show the subject, the date, the despatching office as well as the receiving office:

- (a) Osaka Prefectural Office) To Military Govt. Office, 98th

1. Reference is made to letter, this headquarters, subject as above, dated 15 December 1948, covering priority of activities through March 1949.

2. The inclosed list establishes priorities for the period April through June 1949. It indicates the relative emphasis placed by this headquarters on the various activities under each section and is furnished as a basis for planning, subject to changes dictated by local conditions.

3. In the light of present shortages of personnel, the importance of careful, continuous and coordinated planning cannot be too strongly emphasized. Such planning will lead to the most efficient utilization of available personnel and transportation and insure relative coverage of the most important activities without omitting required action in secondary fields.

4. Surveillance of Japanese tax collection is still a very important function and will be continued in full force. Nothing in the inclosure hereto, should be construed as giving priority to any section of military government to the detriment of another section. The priority given is by activity within each section. All activities required of military government units are not included, but those requiring particular emphasis during the next quarter are listed.

SUBJECT: SUBSTANCE OF CONFERENCE

TO: The Governor, Miyagi Prefecture

The following subjects were discussed at a conference held at the Office of the Commanding General, Miyagi Force, and the Governor, Miyagi Prefecture, 0900, 1 Oct 45:

1. Labor

a. Skilled labor furnished the allied occupational force has not been satisfactory. Carpenters, plumbers and steam-fitters have been requisitioned, but have not appeared for work daily. In many instances, skilled laborers appear one day and are absent the following day. Maintenance labor for both arsenals would be furnished for permanent duty by the Japanese Government.

2. Roads

a. The allied occupation force will do some emergency road repairing, but this will in no manner affect the road maintenance of the Prefectural Government.

b. Sections of road under repair should have barriers erected to prevent traffic until repairs are completed and the road ready to take vehicular traffic.

c. Allied force vehicles will be given right of way at all times. Upon approaching an on coming Allied vehicle, Japanese vehicles will immediately move as close as possible to the side of the road, and if

- ii. The Emperor will order immediately the revision of the lese majeste section of the Criminal Code.
- iii. He will order the suspension of the examination of the lese majeste case now in progress.

(Note: This last suggestion was dropped when it was pointed out that it might be taken as an act of interference with the Court, and moreover that it would be inappropriate to pick up the Placard Case, if it is to be proved that the offense charged therein constitutes libel.)

2. Concerning the question of the Increasing Non-Cooperation tendency among Japanese government officials.

Liaison with the G. H. Q. and other quarters is being maintained these days in a most satisfactory manner. Only the frequent transfers of officials cannot but be considered as a manifestation of the government non-cooperative attitude toward the G. H. Q. The retirement of Minister Suzuki of the Yokohama Liaison Office is a conspicuous example. None of the reasons for his retirement is convincing.

At an interview on Wednesday this week (Sept. 18) Colonel Kadis had the following to say.

1. Concerning Lese Majeste.

As I have said frequently the attention of the world is now being focussed on the question of lese majeste. Moreover, the way the matter is being discussed in various countries is far from reassuring. I advise you to take the following measures immediately.

- i. If there are any persons still in prison for lese majeste, release them at once.
- ii. Dispose speedily of the lese majeste cases now pending.
- iii. Suspend the current penal provisions for lese majeste, and revise them. In order to do that, first specify the offenses that fall under the category of lese majeste, and make them public. The scope of these offenses should not extend beyond libel cases such as are applicable to ordinary persons.

In view of the very delicate political development involved, it is necessary to take some swift action for political remedy. Such being our conclusion, I am not ordering you, but I advise you to study the suggestion of General Whitney--a suggestion which seems quite in place--that is, the Emperor himself act as follows:

- i. The Emperor will personally order the release of the lese majeste offenders who are held in prison under the old law.

昭和二一、九、一九 終極會議

九月十七日GHQ「ガバメント・セクション」よりCLOに對し、日本側事務當局の管理政策に對する非協力的態度に就て、實例を擧げて注意の喚起あり、「蓋し現状を維持するを得ない」としてGHQとしては從來の日本管理政策を変更せざるを得ない」として日本側の非協力的態度の是正に就て抜本的措置を講ずることを要請された次第は別紙要領の通であるが、右に就てCLOは方面の空氣を打診して見たところ大要次の通である。御参考焉

一、日本進駐後一年を経過したのでGHQとしては從來の日本管理政策を再検討して見る時期が来たと考へてあること。

二、從來の政策は進駐直後のことでもあり、一般に「ラフ」であつたから、今後は一層「システマチック」に管理政策を推進し、受ければならぬと考へてあること。

- ii. The Emperor will order immediately the revision of the lese majeste section of the Criminal Code.
- iii. He will order the suspension of the examination of the lese majeste case now in progress.

(Note: This last suggestion was dropped when it was pointed out that it might be taken as an act of interference with the Court, and moreover that it would be inappropriate to pick up the Placard Case, if it is to be proved that the offense charged therein constitutes libel.)

2. Concerning the question of the Increasing Non-Cooperation tendency among Japanese government officials.

Liaison with the G. H. Q. and other quarters is being maintained these days in a most satisfactory manner. Only the frequent transfers of officials cannot but be considered as a manifestation of the government non-cooperative attitude toward the G. H. Q. The retirement of Minister Suzuki of the Yokohama Liaison Office is a conspicuous example. None of the reasons for his retirement is convincing.

STATEMENT BY JAMES HILLEN 2 August 1948

obtained through U.P.

Major General W.F. Marquart, Chief, Economic and Scientific Section, advised me Saturday afternoon that my resignation, submitted to him on 29 July, had been accepted, effective 31 July. I expect to leave for the States at the earliest possible opportunity.

May I repeat that action against strikes in the government service is not the issue on which my resignation is based. Rather it is the denial to the vast majority of government workers of the rights of collective negotiation, mediation and arbitration that has brought my return to the United States.

The initial policy of the Occupation clearly recognized the role of a free trade union movement in the development of free institutions and democratic processes in post-war Japan. This has been especially true in the wide field of government service and enterprises whose workers constitute a larger share of the nation's labor movement than is customary in most western countries.

Legislation in the early days of the Occupation prohibited "acts of dispute" on the part of government employees engaged in administrative and juridical functions, but specifically excluded those engaged in governmental enterprises such as railways, communications, the revenue monopolies, teachers, etc. This legislation was approved by the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers long before my arrival in Japan. However, it readily became apparent that, if government functions and services were to be carried on efficiently and without interruption while at the same time protecting the rights of the workers to organization and collective negotiation, definite legal procedures were required which would facilitate an orderly and proper relationship between the government and its employees.

The undersirability of acts of dispute in government service has been recognized at all times by the Labor Division. We undertook to develop legislation designed to provide the use of collective negotiations and utilizing compulsory arbitration of unresolved issues. In the preparation of this program, we learned much from the experience of the British and others in dealing with similar problems.

Although the Labor Division has sought for the past 8 months to discuss these proposals with those in GHQ responsible for the preparation of an efficient Civil Service System, we have been denied this opportunity.

Since the Occupation began, the Japanese Government has recognized the right of government workers to organize into unions and bargain collectively. The right of collective negotiations has now been denied the vast majority of government workers, thereby taking away from them the one effective instrument in attaining sorely needed economic betterment. The denial of such basic rights has seldom proven to be a step forward in the development of human worth and dignity. Nor will this denial strengthen the belief in the

December 31, 1948

Dear Admiral Nomura:

Thank you very much for your welcome Christmas card. I hope it means that you are well and that you are hopeful for the future.

Everything that has to do with Japan is, of course, of the greatest interest and I try to keep in step with all that goes on. I had luncheon a few days ago with the two men in the Department of State who have most to do with American policy toward Japan, and had a very satisfactory conference with them. They feel, as I do, that everything possible must be done to build up the peaceful economy of Japan; that we should try our best to stimulate trade so that Japan can, as rapidly as possible, become self-supporting and a nation which will become a bulwark against subversive ideas. As I see the Japanese character, there is nothing to indicate that communism would be either popular or successful, and I believe that if Japan can show that free enterprise will bring prosperity and happiness this could have great influence on the other nations of Eastern Asia.

The war was certainly a tragic mistake, but I know that it was not welcomed by the best people in Japan, and that your hope now is for a century of peace, in order that the fine qualities of the people, their progressive spirit, and love of beauty, and natural kindness of disposition may be developed. I hope that America can help in all that, and that Japan will, in turn, help us to confine communism to Russian lands. Even there, I feel sure it will eventually collapse because nothing, I think, can last indefinitely that does not bring happiness to the people in general.

New Year.

I hope you may have a happy and successful

Sincerely yours,

William R. Castle

Book on Gen. MacArthur

By Orville Prescott

Inside John Gunther there must be a journalistic dynamo. When he isn't writing vast volumes analyzing the political state of affairs of whole continents, Mr. Gunther is at work on shorter projects keyed to the frenzied rush of current history. He wrote a hasty report on the invasion of Sicily in World War II, another on what was going on "Behind the Curtain" as of the fall of 1948, an affectionate memoir of Franklin Roosevelt which leaned heavily upon all the other books about him, "Roosevelt in Retrospect." And now he has produced a book which is almost, but never quite, as timely as today's newspaper, "The Riddle of MacArthur: Japan, Korea and the Far East."

Last June, when the North Korean forces launched their attack across the Thirty-eighth Parallel, John Gunther was in Japan gathering material for a book on General MacArthur and post-war Japan. As usual, his world fame as a reporter opened all doors for Mr. Gunther. General MacArthur talked to him at length and so did the important men around him. So did the Japanese political leaders. Even the Emperor granted Mr. Gunther an audience.

Book Fails to Solve MacArthur Riddle

With such opportunities and his well-proved abilities, Mr. Gunther could not fail to produce an interesting book of topical reporting. "The Riddle of MacArthur" is crisply written and usefully informative about MacArthur and Japan. But it is not one of Mr. Gunther's major works. If there is a riddle about MacArthur, Mr. Gunther has not solved it. If there is any positive policy in Asia which we should adopt, one more specific than general support of the democrats and Nationalists, Mr. Gunther doesn't know what it is any more than the rest of us. About the Philippines he says, "The position is nasty here and getting nastier." That about sums up what he has to say about all Asia--except about Japan.

The American occupation in Japan, Mr. Gunther says, is an experiment "unique not merely in our history but in any history. What--to put it in the bare bones of a word or two--we have attempted to do in Japan is to remake an entire nation, an entire civilization, in our own image." MacArthur, without the use of force, "imposes democracy--like a dictator." At first he told the Japanese Government what to do by means of "directives." More recently he has given them "advice." The result has been a non-violent democratic revolution.

On the whole, Mr. Gunther is immensely impressed by the achievements of MacArthur's proconsulship. His descriptions of the reforms which have been brought about in politics, economics, education and religion will impress his readers, too. Take the matter of public health, whose statistics are particularly eloquent. Smallpox has nearly been eliminated. On two occasions every human being in Japan, 80,000,000 of them, was vaccinated. The diphtheria rate has been reduced 86 per cent. Typhoid has been reduced 90 per cent. Thirty-four million persons have been immunized against cholera. Mr. Gunther doesn't believe that all the American reforms in Japan will be permanent. He does believe that Japan's sudden and drastic dose of democracy will have permanent effects of some kind.

Of Divided Mind About General

About the man chiefly responsible for all this, Mr. Gunther seems to be of a somewhat divided mind. He admires MacArthur's military acumen, his physical and moral courage, his "indisputable idealism," his intelligence, his powers of memory, his powers of leadership, his faith in democracy and his profoundly religious faith. The MacArthur who emerges from Mr. Gunther's pages is a great soldier and a great administrator. But he is also a man with notorious and flamboyantly conspicuous shortcomings.

Mr.

Mr. Gunther did not fail to observe the egoism and vanity, the bravado and imperious arrogance, the bombastic ostentation and theatrical hamminess which have irritated millions. He quotes samples of MacArthur's fantastically pompous prose and records some of his weird political pronouncements, such as his admiration for the democratic wisdom and idealism of Hearst, of all people! And he severely condemns MacArthur's failure to realize that the Chinese Communists were massing to attack the advancing United Nations forces. Bad intelligence or failure to take seriously good intelligence, in either case it was "the most inexplicable and humiliating defeat of his entire career."

Perhaps such an error has its basic cause in MacArthur's persistent overoptimism, which in turn may be caused by his dedicated belief in his own supremely important mission. MacArthur, says Mr. Gunther, "even goes so far as to think of himself and the Pope as the two leading representatives of Christianity in the world today. The Pope fights on the spiritual front, so to speak, while he tackles communism on the ground."

Maybe the riddle of MacArthur is only the not uncommon phenomenon of remarkable abilities combined with remarkable egoism, but without the usual conventional pretense of polite humility.

MEMORANDUM FOR: JAPANESE GOVERNMENT

SUBJECT: Exercise of Jurisdiction over Property

1. Reference is made to Memorandum for the Japanese Government from General Headquarters, Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers, AG 015 (27 Jun 47)LS-L, SCAPIN 1740, subject: Amendment to Exercise of Criminal Jurisdiction, 27 June 1947, which prohibits, unless duly authorized, the possession, taking, receipt or disposal of property of the occupation forces or any member thereof, or of any member attached to or accompanying such forces.

2. Notwithstanding the provisions of SCAPIN 1740, Japanese courts and government agencies are authorized to exercise civil and criminal jurisdiction over all property in Japan, except in cases involving the following categories of property:

a. Military currencies, such as Military Payment Certificates, as issued by the United States Armed Forces, or British Armed Forces Special Vouchers, as issued by the British Commonwealth Occupation Force;

b. Property of any foreign government represented in Japan;

c. Property where the claimant thereto, if any, or the possessor thereof, if known, is not subject to the civil or criminal jurisdiction of Japanese courts or agencies.

3. a. Property described in 2a and 2b, coming under the cognizance of the Japanese authorities, will be turned over forthwith to the appropriate Allied authorities for disposition.

b. Property described in 2c will be held by the Japanese Government and reported forthwith to the Allied authorities. However, when such property is seized by occupation authorities from occupation personnel, it will not be turned over to the Japanese Government until the Contraband Tribunal has made its initial ruling that the property in question is contraband. Property, if finally declared contraband by the Allied authorities, may be released to the Japanese Government for disposition. Released property will be disposed of by the Japanese Government.

c. If there is no claimant to the property, or if the possessor thereof is unknown, the Japanese Government may exercise jurisdiction, which is conclusive upon final action by the Japanese Government or its agencies in accordance with Japanese law, except for the categories of property described in paragraphs 2a and 2b.

4. The Japanese Government is authorized to exercise jurisdiction over property in accordance with Japanese law, and the provisions herein.

5. For the information of the Japanese Government, the occupation forces in Japan have been advised of the policy of the General Headquarters, Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers, that unless specifically authorized to the contrary by the Supreme Commander, in a particular case, the provisions of Circular 23, General Headquarters, Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers, 7 July 1948, entitled "Contraband," shall not be applicable to cases in which the Japanese Government is authorized to exercise jurisdiction. Generally, the intent and effect of this policy is not to deny but rather to limit the jurisdiction of the occupation forces in contraband matters.

6. For the purpose of implementation, the Japanese Government is authorized to communicate with appropriate staff sections of General Headquarters, Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers, on matters within the scope of this memorandum.
